SEARCH MADE FOR MISSING COUNTY OFFICER

Parents of Recorder C. E. Smith Concerned Over His Prolonged Absence

NO TRACE FOUND

Gone Since April 29; Nervous Breakdown from Overwork, Possible, Parents Say

Disappearance from the city of Charles E Smith, 25, county recorder, was revealed today when his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S T Smith, 135 Curtis av, stated that they had not seen or heard from him since Sunday morning April 29

No reason could be given by the parents this morning for the continued absence of their son Their only thought was that strain from overwork at his office had brought him near a nervous breakdown and that he had quietly left the city for a short rest

Suggestions that Smith has had a disagreement with his fiancee, whose name was withheld by Mr and Mrs Smith, were doubted by the parents The recorder was to have been married some time this summer and had recently purchased a property on E Center st, it is said

Find No Trace

A search started by the father and mother a few days after the disappearance of the son has failed to reveal any trace of the missing man Mr Smith stated this morning that he had been in communication with relatives in Kansas City, Chicago and cities in the east and south, but so far the search has been fruitless.

"We think he is somewhere resting" the parents said this morning They continue to hope that he will return before next Monday

Deputies and clerks in the recorders office could give no clues as to the whereabouts of Smith Nor could they give any reason for his continued absence. Their first knowledge that Smith had left the city came on the Monday morning following his departure when he failed to show up at his office at the usual time.

The parents stated today that their son was not in the habit of leaving for any extended stay without telling where he was going This statement was confirmed by employes in Smith's

Ancient Chicago Curfew Law Revived In Effort to Kill City's Gay Night Life

CHICAGO, May 11—An ancient curfew law, ignored since the World War, is to be rigidly enforced in "naughty" Chicago Commissioner of Police Michael Hughes made it plain today.

The law requires all poolrooms, cabarets and "soft drink" parlors to close their doors not later than 1 a m.

Calling his deputy commissioners together Hughes delivered an ultimatum that send in effect:

1 - Halt all rum-running vehicles and turn the liquor and prisoners over to the government

2 - Jail all racketeers on sight and keep on jailing them as frequently as they get out of jail.

3 - Stop all open gambling

"Those orders are plain" Hughes told his deputy commissioners "See that they are followed to the letter. There will be no buck passing to captains or other subordinates If the orders are not followed, you'll go before the trial board"

The commissioners were also ordered to:

1 - Halt all rum-running vehicles and turn the liquor and prisoners over to the government

2 - Jail all racketeers on sight and keep on jailing them as frequently as they get out of jail.

3 - Stop all open gambling

"Those orders are plain" Hughes told his deputy commissioners "See that they are followed to the letter. There will be no buck passing to captains or other subordinates If the orders are not followed, you'll go before the trial board"

The orders to turn liquor law violators over to the government is revolutionary in the annals of the Chicago Police Department With the government padlocking the leading night clubs and cabarets, and local authority enforcing the "curfew," Chicago's once gay night life is rapidly becoming extinct

Hoover Needs Votes

The votes of Pennsylvania, or a good part of them at least, are vitally necessary to the nomination of Hoover Figure how they will—and do the Hoover managers cannot arrive at a table of reasonable expectations of more than 500 votes without some help from Pennsylvania, and 545 are necessary to determine the Republican choice at Kansas City. And in that 500 table the Hoover tabulators are stretching several points which may not, in the final analysis, stand for much stretching Hence their interest in Pennsylvania, and in the Philadelphia gathering tomorrow.

Had Hoover succeeded in carrying Indiana against Senator Watson there is but little doubt that the Philadelphia conclave tomorrow would have indorsed

VICTORY FIRST FOR AMERICAN IN FOUR YEARS

Prince of Wales Joins with Crowd in Applauding Golf's Showman

SARAZEN SECOND

Revenge Gained for Defeat by Compston · Trails Argentine in First Round

Sandwich May 11 Walter Hagen, golf's greatest showman put on one of his best acts today when he came from the rear with a typical Hagen rush to win the British Open Championship with a pair of 77's for an aggregate score of 292

It was the fifth straight triumph of an American in this once impregnable British feature and the third record by Hagen himself and in person, yet the Anglican gallery had become so inured to the sight of an American winning that it gave Hagen an ovation, even the Prince of Wales joining the applause

Walter Hagen

The victory was Hagen's first in a major championship since the American P G A championship he included, and it also afforded this slick young man the satisfaction of a complete redemption from that 75 up and 17 to play defeat that he sustained at Archie Compston's hands upon his arrival in England.

Hagen wasn't ready for that test, But he was more than ready this week. His 292 while not quite in the same class with Bobby Jones' record at St. Andrews last year, being one of the best scores ever made in the great nation's

Jurado Cracks at Noon

Walter started the event with a record 75 while Jose Jurado, the Argentine, was burning up the course. But the American surely was hiding his time for one of those last day finishes for which he is justly famous. Jurado cracked after Hagen passed him by a stroke at noon and, from that point, it only was a question of whether Gene Sarazen, another fighting American, would be able to overtake the leader.

Gene tried hard but the best he could do this afternoon was the a total of 294, taking second place and rounding out the usual American triumph. Compston also got a 75 to finish a stroke in Hagen's rear at 293.

"Pretty embarrassing living with Old Sleuth, isn't it?" he queried.

"No, it's embarrassing for Old Sleuth to have to live with me. And Bob despises her. Just as soon as he is able to sit my horse I'll dismiss her, and then she can talk to her heart's content."

"I'm glad you're not that kind of woman," he told her tenderly. His arm went around her shoulders. "What a treasure you are! You just naturally know what it's all about and never ask questions." His right eyebrow went up whimsically. "I'll bet King Solomon's most popular wife conformed to your specifications, Monica. Old Sol must have been fed up on the garden variety when he prayed, 'Lord, give me an understanding heart.'"

"Silly! Why everybody knows Solomon was using poetic license when he said that. He wanted the Lord to endow him with an understanding mind and a kind, democratic nature. He wasn't thinking of a perfect wife at all, because in those days a man didn't require a perfect wife. The man was the head of the house then and whenever one of his wives spoke out of her turn she was banished until she learned her lesson."

"I think you're wrong," he persisted gaily. "Solomon got so tired banishing them that he prayed for one he wouldn't have to banish. What he craved was a wife who would study his moods and respect them. Whenever he set himself to do some ground and lofty thinking he hated to be disturbed, but it was a heap of comfort to him, having concluded his knotty cerebration, to have somebody say, 'Solomon, dear, I think your decision is the acme of wisdom.'"

"And of course," Monica added, "Solomon, being an egotistic male, would swallow that compliment hook, line and sinker, never realizing that his favorite wife hadn't the slightest idea of the nature of the decision he had come to, but that she was just making a shrewd guess to the effect that he had arrived at a decision."

"My dear, the number of wives who are smart enough to do even that is limited. Those are the wives who make their husbands go far and have the blessed gift of humor to the extent that they never quarrel with folks who declare their husbands are self-made men! Down in that world to which you aspire women are in revolt against even the passive domination of the masculine sex. The big idea now is to control the idiot by dominating him and creating in him an inferiority complex."

"My man," Monica answered, following a pause, "must have a superiority complex if I am to love him and coddle him and obey him and be happy with him. I'll be very happy to take orders from the man I marry, because I will have made up my mind, after careful analysis that he is fitted for command. I can imagine nothing more distressing than a clash of ideas and a continuous substitution of plans in the domestic campaign."

"When prehistoric man faced a saber-toothed tiger with spear and club, prehistoric women knew their place. It was up in a tree! She cheered him from there. By the way, Monica, I was over to Dogwood Flats yesterday and met Thurlow again. I told you over the phone all about my conversation with him the night I left Bogus."

"He asked me yesterday when I was going to file Uncle Charley's will for probate. He said he'd heard I was pretty busy and offered to drive me over to Montague in his car when I was ready to go. . . . Well, let's go in and look old Bob Mason over. I suppose, when his hide heals, he'll be a pinto, won't he?"

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Light Begins To Dawn upon the Mystery

LILLIAN kept her word not to speak to me until Katie brought the luncheon tray, and all the morning I worked over the intricacies of the code paper which had been secreted in Princess Olina's miniature case. I had the original now, which she had turned over to me, and I knew that when I had completed the translation, I would have the difficult task of preparing a trick paper which should resemble the original without betraying any of its secrets, and which she would be prepared to give to the red-bearded man when he should signal her to do so.

I was so absorbed in the task that only Lillian's insistence made me stop for the luncheon tray and a half hour's relaxed nap upon the couch of the upstairs screened balcony while she sat reading near me. Then she awakened me and we went back to my room again, where I worked until the characters before me began to blur and I put my hand up to my eyes in a gesture of brushing them away. Lillian must have been watching me closely, for she was at my side the next minute.

"I knew I'd be needed," she scolded. "You haven't one bit of sense. Now put this away, pronto. I prescribe one scented bath, one icy needle shower, fifteen minutes lying down and then dressing for dinner. You'll have just time. No, you're not going to show me anything. I'll look at them when we come upstairs again. Cover the stuff up. It looks like a sublimated cross-word puzzle to me."

"It is," I returned, laughing, and then I followed her directions meticulously. Indeed, she gave me no chance to do anything else.

Dinner was not a particularly happy meal. Of course, my father and Jackson, [illegible] in their own [illegible] for their wicked [illegible] of their presence at [illegible] over the week of the [illegible] a sense of [illegible] son would say could they know the real identity of their comrades.

I had little time for speculative thought, however, for the visitors had stayed less than half an hour when Lillian called me aside.

"I'll tip Phil off to take Noel away," she said, and will you give young Jackson a hint to stay away until you send for him? Invent any reason you please, but we can't risk having them around for the next few nights. Chance callers could be managed by some of us, but we don't want anybody who's specially interested in Olina."

Obediently I made an opportunity to speak to young Jackson, and with a sudden resolve tossed aside all subterfuge.

"I must ask a great favor of you," I said, when we were out of earshot of the others. "But first it is only fair to tell you that Miss Lincoln has confided her real identity—and yours—to me. She said she was sure you would not object. But I shall not address either of you as prince or princess. We must keep her secret for awhile."

He started violently. "You will—will—not tell—Miss Mary," he said, and I guessed that he was indulging in the romantic dream of [illegible] Dicky's lovely young niece as [illegible] George Logan Jackson, and then [illegible] revealing his true identity as [illegible] Georges of Trent.

"No, indeed," I returned, [illegible] ask you not to come to [illegible] for a few days—[illegible] crowd. [illegible] exciting [illegible] will tell you [illegible]

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Friday. It most of rained some last night, but it has stopped when I let Jubilee down. When I was milking the dummed heifer and the bunch had got there I was surprised by Peanuts who asked me to tell him how come he was in Miss Parmer's house when the ambulance men came. I said we took him in when he got beaned with the bat, and he said he didn't remember anything about that. He said he remembered we were going to play ball and then all at once he was on a stretcher being carried out of Miss Parmer's. That is funny. I bet if anyone would bean me with a baseball bat I would remember it. We never did find out who pushed Peanuts's head under the hat. Whoever done it was afraid to tell.

My mother wanted my father to go over to Younisses house with her after supper, as he said he would go over to the barber's and get a shave, so I went with him. When we went to my father went to set in the chair, and the barber looked up from the paper he was reading and told my father there was a man ahead of him. My father looked all around, but no one came and my father sat down and we waited quite a while. Then the barber put down his paper and grapped and stretched and said, "Well, locking up time," my father looked surprised and said, "How about my shave?" The barber said, "You have your hair cut in town why don't you go there for your shave." I never saw my father so mad, and he began to call the barber a lot of things, and then the barber opened the door and came and took hold of my father to put him out. My father knocked the barber over the barber chair, and the barber got up and flang a mug at my father, but my father dodged it and went to jump over the chair to get the barber, but the chair trapped him and the both went down on the floor and were grunting and punching at each other. Pretty soon the barber said he had enough and they got up and my father got in the chair and he had a shanty on our lamp and his lip was all swole, and he said "Now shave me." And the barber shaved him. The barber's nose was bleeding and he kept wiping it on a towel between strokes, and he gave my father a good shave, and then my father paid him and we went out, and the barber called my father a name and slammed the door, and my father tried to get in, but couldn't, so we went home.

I never expected to be proud of my own father, but I was all the way home. My mother gave my father's face one look and took off her coat and hat and began to say things to him, and he sent me to bed. I went.

By FRANCES JENNINGS

ANOTHER novel of American family life—and beyond doubt the cleverest of the year—is Fannie Hurst's "A President Is Born," an early 1928 publication of Harper and Brothers.

While in more of a biographical style Miss Hurst's novel is patterned after the fashion of "Jaina" and "The Grandmothers" two other unforgettable novels of family life popular earlier in the season.

The story deals with a child an entire generation younger than his brothers and sisters, a boy intelligent, ambitious, sturdy but a child whom not even his family could fathom ever holding the office of the chief executive of the United States.

Young David Schuyler's life from his birth to young manhood—in fact to the very day when he leaves home to seek his fortune in the business world, furnishes the background for a pleasing narrative of life—the lives of his elder brothers and sisters, their children, his quaint, hard-working mother, his sly, goading father and his Dora, a childhood sweetheart for whom fate has chosen the title of first lady of the land—when her childhood adorableness has blossomed into womanhood.

Laid in Ohio Town

Much of the story, particularly incidents in the life of David, are related in footnotes from the diary of Rebekka Schuyler Reechler, the capable older sister of the boy upon whose willing shoulders rest many of the family burdens.

Miss Hurst, fortunately, does not attempt to relate David's experiences in the White House, saving her story from the realm of conjecture and keeping it totally and wholesomely realistic.

The story is laid in a small Ohio town, Centralia, a prosperous little place, at a time when such communities are content to work and progress within their own borders, unaffected by the outer world except for some great nation-moving conflict like the World War.

"A President Is Born" displays to advantage Miss Hurst's great versatility in the field of literature, being totally different from any of her earlier novels, among which are "Lummox," "Appassionata" or "Star-Dust. The latest book is by far the most important of all her works, the largest in scope, the most individual, the most far-seeing.

HENRY'S CAREER IN BOOK FORM

WILLIAM HAZLETT UPSON, whose stories of Henry in the great war have brought hilarious memories to Saturday Evening Post readers, has written the complete epic of Henry's martial career in "Me and Henry and the Artillery," a book just brought out by Doubleday, Doran.

"Me and Henry" hated the whole army, especially artillery horses, corporals, majors, lieutenant-colonels, colonels and all forms of generals, recounts Mr. Upson. And again, "Me and Henry" just couldn't seem to get rid of the artillery. Whenever we got away from our own artillery for a minute or two the German artillery would start in bothering us, but it never bothered us half as much as our own artillery did. Every time, me and Henry sat down with a bottle of cognac, every time we made friends with a good-looking mademoiselle, every time we got a chance to dry off—why, along came the artillery. Henry and me was the unluckiest guys in the A. E. F. but we managed to have a pretty good time at that."

BASACOS AND BRIDE COMING TO MARION

Wed in Greece After 17-Year Betrothal Expected Here in July

... Basacos, Marion man who left ... home town in Greece in ... the sweetheart of his ... will return to Marion ... in July, according to a letter received from him today by his brother, Tom Basacos.

The marriage, which took place after a separation of 17 years during which Basacos and his sweetheart kept their betrothal faithfully in spite of the thousands of miles which lay between them, was the culmination of an unusual romance.

They attended school together in their home town, Stemnitas, Greece, and became engaged at that early date. When Basacos decided to come to America 17 years ago, it was with the understanding that he would return to claim his bride when he felt that circumstances warranted marriage.

That point was reached this year and on March 12 Basacos left here for Greece. He and his brother, Tom, are partners in ownership and management of the Brunswick Cafe, 135 N. Main st.

The bride's maiden name was Miss Mary Ballas. The wedding, according to the account given in the letter received by Tom Basacos, took place in St. Mary's Orthodox Greek Church at Stemnitza on April 30 in the presence of approximately 200 friends and relatives. The church is one of the oldest in that section of the country, having been built in the year 347.

Basacos and his bride expect to start on their trip for America about July 10, coming directly to Marion, where Basacos will resume his business activities.

Fourteen of the 17 years that have elapsed since Basacos first came to America have been passed as a resident of Marion. Prior to coming here he lived in Pittsburgh.

Alice Joyce Will Be

NEWS OF MOVIES IN CINEMA CAPITAL

Star of "The Squall"

BY LOUELLA O. PARSONS

LOS ANGELES, May 11.—Alice Joyce, recognized as Jesse L. Lasky's most potent rival for community honors between Hollywood and New York, is returning to movieland. Alice is always torn between two loves, her husband and her babies on one hand in New York and her career as a screen actress in Hollywood on the other.

But you couldn't keep her away from Hollywood now. Out of all the prospective candidates, Alice has been selected to play the mother in "The Squall," the role that Blanche Yurka made famous on the stage. The contract is due to be signed any day. Frank Lloyd has been named as director.

Mr. Lloyd might consult with Count Andrea de Segurola on the Spanish settings. The count was called in by Jean Barr, author of the play, for advice in the staging of the New York production. He was given a percentage of the receipts for his work and, as every one knows, the play ran twenty months or more on Broadway.

THE musical comedy favorites who have stopped singing and started pantomiming can practice their do, re, mi's. Warner Brothers are going to need a good-looking leading man with a voice to play the lead in "The Desert Song," purchased by them for the screen.

"The Desert Song" will be the first musical comedy to be vitaphoned in its entirety. All of Sigmund Romberg's tuneful musical numbers will be reproduced with the talking movies. The experiment will be interesting.

"The Desert Song" has been one of the most popular of the musical comedies on the stage. How it will fare as a motion picture remains to be seen.

BEN HECHT, Chicago novelist and erstwhile newspaper man, is due in Hollywood again. Mr. Hecht comes here, writes his stuff and then departs for home. He will be accompanied by Al Lewis, George Jessel's stage manager. Mr. Lewis, while here, will interview Mr. Jessel about "Private Jones," his next year's stage play. I suppose eventually it will be filmed. There is every reason to believe that if it is it won't slip through Mr. Jessel's fingers.

HOLD your breath. Columbia is producing a special to cost $200,000. Harry Cohn paused long enough from conferring with Irvin Willat, who will direct his epic, to break the news to me.

"It's a submarine story," explained Harry, "called 'Between the Surface' and it's written by Norman Springer, the man who wrote 'The Blood Ship.' These are the patent facts in this picture, which Columbia fondly hopes will be a worthy successor to 'The Blood Ship.'"

Jack Holt will have his horse to hero in this "dramatuer," which is now being prepared for the screen by Winifred Dunn.

I hope this expensive venture will not become chronic for I like to be able to say Columbia produces cheap pictures and brags about it.

THE F. O. B. studio these days is a beehive of activity. Production has tarted into swing, accelerated no doubt by the recent visit of Joseph Kennedy and by William Le Baron's eagerness to make a showing at the end of the year.

Marshall Neilan started work yesterday.

Gloria Swanson begins in a few weeks.

A dressing room is being gotten in readiness for Tom Mix, who returns to Hollywood in July.

You cannot blame Lita Wilson for promising to divide her time between the stage and F. O. B. William Le Baron sold her the idea when he purchased "Sally's Shoulders," a story by Beatrice Burton that has been running in the Hearst newspapers. Lois feels her excursion before the footlights will fit her to do better work than she has ever done in her life.

RICHARD ROWLAND must think highly of "The Goodbye Kiss." He took a look at it in New York and at once wired Mack Sennett, making him an offer for release, through First National. Mack, who had made the picture without any distribution plans, has accepted. This picture, I think, more than any other in years, is attracting attention for the reason it is the first long Sennett feature. Then, too, it stars Sally Eilers, comparatively unknown.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN has everything ready for his next comedy but a title. He has written the story, planned the sets and assigned roles to Harry Crocker, Mona Kennedy and Henry Bergman.

He wants a title of two or more words, significant, and concise and descriptive. At most, not more than three words. He says he has taken two of his ideas, combined them in one story, which concerns a bum, a crook and a pretty girl. Sounds like the ingredients of a Chaplin comedy yet when it is put together there will be so much to tell, or relate in a synopsis.

SOCIETY MEETS

Deborah Missionary Group Members Entertained with Program

Prospect, May 11—The Deborah Missionary Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. A. Hawk south of town. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Edward Lauer, and opened with the hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." The pastor, Rev. C. H. S. Hinziker, led the devotions after the song, "My Happy Home," was sung.

Sixteen members responded to roll call, Mrs. Harry Paul presided as leader for the lesson topic which was, "The Big Three in a Child's Life: a Sound Body, a Sound Mind and a Sound Soul."

Mrs. Paul was assisted in the discussion by Mrs. Frank Behmos, Mrs. Samuel Almendinger, Mrs. Ben McNeal and Mrs. C. H. S. Hinziker. After singing "Savior Again to Thy Dear Name We Raise," the meeting closed with the Lord's prayer. Lunch was served. Miss Stella McNeal was a guest.

During the last few years there has been a notable boom in sports in some of the South American countries. This is shown by the fact that some of the Buenos Aires daily papers which formerly grudgingly allowed a few columns to sporting news, now, in a certain day's issue, devote ten pages or more to sporting events.

Wouldn't it be fine if the buttons on the things we buy were fastened on as firmly as the price tags?

APPEAL FROM COURT RULE MAY BE TAKEN

Treasury and Justice Departments Confer on Former Ford Stockholders' Cases

Washington, May 11—An appeal from adverse income tax decisions arising out of an effort to collect additional taxes of nearly $37,000,000,000 from former Ford Motor Co. minority stockholders was considered today at a conference of Treasury and Justice Department officials.

Decisions of the board of tax appeals which ruled that Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, does not owe $10,000,000 additional taxes, and the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati holding that Mrs. Alice G. Kales of Detroit is entitled to a $2,627,209 refund of taxes illegally collected, were examined.

The government has six months in which to appeal the cases. The Kales action may be taken to the U. S. Supreme Court, while the Couzens case would go to the Circuit Court, if it appears that errors have been made by the lower tribunals.

AGREEMENT SEEN

Senate and House Groups Compromise on Provisions

Washington, May 11—An early agreement on conflicting provisions of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill was predicted today following a compromise between Senate and House conferees on some important provisions.

Senate conferees, it was learned, yielded to the House restrictions on the power of advisory councils set up to advise the proposed Federal Farm Board in handling surplus crops. The House provision requires consent of the council before the equalization fee is levied, but removes many restrictions on the federal board which were said to be objected to by President Coolidge last year.

SAYS CONSERVATION IS NEEDED IN OHIO

Program for Preserving Natural Resources Outlined by Mt. Gilead Speaker

Mt. Gilead, May 11—Speaking before the local Kiwanis Club at its Thursday luncheon in the Morsen room of the Glove Hotel, J. W. Stuber, secretary of the League of Ohio Sportsmen urged a definite conservation policy for Ohio and recommended a department of conservation with a director in the governor's cabinet as the best means of bringing it about. He pointed to the great strides in conservation of game and wild life as well as of all natural resources made by other states where the department plan has been adopted. Stuber stated that the Ohio Conservation Council, composed of a number of statewide business organizations was making a survey of the state's needs, and planned to lift conservation work in Ohio out of politics by making it a civic program.

"We need more conservation and less conversation," he said. "Ohio is face to face with a conservation problem. Ohio is falling far behind other states because of a lack of a dependable program."

Speaking of the needs of reforestation, he stated that every four years enough newsprint was made for a strip as wide as seven-column newspaper to reach to the sun and back.

"There are 80,000,000 acres of idle land in the United States that can be used for producing forests and game," he said. "Ohio has one million acres available for such use. The organized sportsmen, farmers, and business interests plan to place a definite conservation program before the next legislature."

The Most Expensive Thing You Ever Bought

Now honestly, what was the most expensive thing you ever bought? Wasn't it the dress, or the pair of shoes that you put away in the closet after a few wearings—the article that didn't quite please you when you got it home.

Sometimes this is because your mind was too uncertain, but generally the article did not look as well after a few wearings as you thought it would.

That is exactly the reason we do not sell "seconds," job lots or bankrupt stocks. Our merchandise must stand the most rigid inspection before we offer it to you. We don't want any of those "expensive purchases" to be from our store, if we can help it.

DR. STENGEL TO SEE STATUE UNVEILING

Marion Man Will Be Guest at Mound Builder Ceremony at O. S. U.

Dr. F. A. Stengel, a life member of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, will be among those from this city who go to Columbus, Saturday, to witness the unveiling of a statue to Ohio's prehistoric resident—the Mound Builder.

The services will take place in the Museum building on the Ohio State University campus and because of the limited space, will be open to only members of the society and their friends, it has been announced.

The unveiling will follow almost a year's work in study and effort to reproduce the figure of the Mound Builder. A typical Mound Builder skeleton from one of Ohio's high culture mounds was selected, and by making use of scientific methods of restoration, principally those developed by Dr. J. H. McGregor of Columbia University, the physical entity of the Mound Builder has been reproduced.

The figure of the Mound Builder, representing a male individual approximately 30 years of age, is reproduced in natural size. He is shown seated on a rock, in the act of carving one of the artistic tobacco pipes for which the Ohio Mound Builders are noted. The figure has been called, "The Prehistoric Sculptor." The unveiling of the figure will occur in the main rotunda of the Museum, where it will remain for a time, open to the inspection by the public.

TAKE MOVE TO HALT GRANTING OF MEDALS

Lindberg To Be Only Flier To Gain Coveted Congressional Honor

Washigton, May 10—The War and Navy Departments have taken steps to block nearly a score of bills pending in Congress for the granting of congressional medals to aviators.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, it was indicated, will be the only transoceanic flier to gain the coveted medals at the hands of this session.

"The Navy Department considers that the award of the medal of honor should be most carefully guarded and that it should be granted only in pursuance of existing law, save for most exceptional achievements, such as the transpolar flight of Commander Byrd and the transatlantic flight alone of Colonel Lindbergh," wrote Acting Secretary of the Navy Robinson to the House Naval Affairs Committee.

The same attitude was taken by Secretary of War Davis in disapproving several measures.

Tri-County Ball League Schedule Announced

Sport

HIGHWAYS and BYWAYS

BY KARL R. M'ELROY

Of the many activities that are sponsored by American Legion Posts throughout the country, perhaps the greatest is now in the beginning which will do much to increase the interest of the American boy in America's greatest and most popular pastime.

The Marion American Legion Post is back of the amateur baseball tournament idea and is spending much time in getting plans worked out whereby local youths, under the age of 17, may take part.

This is a very commendable action and will do much to develop new talent in the ranks of boys that will some day be called upon to replace the antiques of modern baseball.

RECREATION ball has its place in this busy world of sports but in some communities it is being literally run into the ground.

Taking Marion for an example there are 34 teams in existance not counting perhaps a score of others But to date there are very few baseball teams.

Years ago, not so many at that, every kid was playing baseball better known as hardball, with a two bit ball and a dime bat. Today this condition is just reversed with the popular soft ball taking its place.

As a result of this no new players are being developed and the situation for major league teams is becoming rather critical. Players of high calibre are becoming nearly extinct.

There is no reason at all why one or more hardball league could not be organized in Marion in such away as not to interfere with the present schedule of recreation ball as sponsored by the Y. M. C. A.

The writer is willing at all times to aid in the organization of such a league that will bring back some of the playing interest in this city. A commerical league could be easily organized for Wednesday afternoons with industrial teams playing on Saturday.

Any players or fans having ideas on this subject can express them through this column.

WITH the soft ball season under way the older players of the city have plenty in the way of recreation. But what is being done about the youth of the city?

Of course there will be the "Y" and Boy Scout Camps this summer but these will only be available to a limited few.

Some definite program should be mapped out at the Y. M. C. A. for a program of clean outdoor recreation for boys under 16 or 17 years old. It is only fair that these groups should be given just the same consideration as the older fellows, especially during the summer months.

The "Y" program calls for moral, mental and physical development and it is quite possible that these can be greatly advanced during this summer.

Hard and soft ball, tennis and many other outdoor sports could be recommended for this program which need not cause too great a strain on the physical director at the "Y". This is another thing that should be worth considerable thought.

SPORTS in Marion and Marion County will not be lacking this summer according to early season advance dope.

In addition to many independent baseball teams, a tri-county baseball league has been organized as well as a fraternal soft ball loop.

Marion is being represented on the professional diamond this year by the Eagles and that lodge will also open outdoor boxing shows starting next month. This organization is in a position to furnish Marion fans with plenty of good honest sport during the year and can do much for the advancement of both baseball and boxing.

With only four leagues playing, recreation ball promises to be even more popular this year than last as far as this city is concerned. The elimination of one league has relieved a congestion that was none too good for the game.

COUNTY BALL MEET STARTS SATURDAY

Drawings for Union County Affair Held at Marysville

Marysville, May 11—The annual Union County baseball tournament will be held at Raymond, Saturday. Formerly the entire tournament was played either at Marysville or some other village, but this year all games with the exception of the semi-finals will be played on one of the diamonds of two competing teams.

According to arrangements the semi-finals and finals will be played at Raymond in the afternoon. The final game will be seven innings, while other games will be only five innings duration.

At a meeting in the office of County Superintendent of Schools J. A. Yeagley, this week, the drawing was held and the following teams were matched for the first round of play:

Raymond vs. York, at Raymond; Pharisburg vs. Watkins, at York; Allen Center vs. Milford Center, at Milford Center; Richwood vs. Magnetic Springs, at York; New California vs. Unionville Center, at Raymond, Irwin vs. New Dover, at Raymond.

Should the Yankees win the American League pennant this season Manager Miller Huggins will equal the record of Connie Mack, who is now the only American League manager who has won six pennants.

A novel match at billiards was played some years ago at a prominent club in London. One player was attired in a full suit of armor, and wore on his hands ten woolen mittens; his opponent wore a set of boxing gloves. The player wearing the mittens won the match and pocketed a good-sized wager which was the incentive for the novel contest.

SMOKE MAGIC

Here's Some Smoke Magic You Can Do With a Nickel

Converting nickels into dimes or quarters by sleight-of-hand is interesting. It's phony, of course. But here's a trick that's genuine. You can do it: Lay a nickel on a cigar counter. Measure what it usually buys in a cigar. Then ask for a Havana Ribbon and see the value your nickel attains!

Here's a cigar, men, that's been famous for thirty years. Its production has risen by millions. Wise experience and the use of nothing but ripe tobacco from heart to wrapper have so marvelously bettered this cigar, there's simply nothing else in the wide world to compare with it for the price.

It's mellow, mild, fragrant. Not a tinge of bitterness. Not a trace of "flatness." No "scraps" or short ends to fray or crumble in your mouth. No, sir! Long filler only—like you find in higher priced cigars. Give it a chance. Don't forget the magic words—"Havana Ribbon." Also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

A novel match at billiards was played some years ago at a prominent club in London. One player was attired in a full suit of armor, and wore on his hands ten woolen mittens; his opponent wore a set of boxing gloves. The player wearing the mittens won the match and pocketed a good sized wager which was the incentive for the novel contest.

BACON MAKES TWO CHANGES IN EAGLES' LINEUP FOR SUNDAY

Sharrock Will Be in Outfield; Sacksteder Given Catching Job

Two positions will be occupied by new faces Sunday afternoon when the Marion Eagles baseball club plays its second contest of the season at Lincoln Park. The local team will meet the House of David nine.

Sailor Sharrock will be seen in an outfield position, it was announced today by Manager Francis Bacon. This will strengthen one weak department of the game and pep up the batting to some extent.

For the past two years Sharrock has played with the House of David team, the aggregation which he will face in his opening appearance here Sunday. Last year he played in 152 games with a batting average of .300.

Sacksteder will occupy the receiving berth as catcher of the Marion team filling the place of Mays who started the game last Sunday. Sack is a good receiver and can hit the ball. This is a point that Manager Bacon is watching with all his players.

Longshore will be carried as the reserve pitcher on the squad this season, according to present plans. He held the Homestead Greys to a 4 to 1 score last year besides trying out with the Dayton team in the Central League.

With two added sluggers in the line up Manager Bacon is expecting little trouble in copping most of the games this season. Hitting as well as good fielding is receiving its share of attention on the Eagles team this season.

Many Olympic Records to Be Bettered This Season

By FRANK G. MENKE

If the promise of practice seasons is fulfilled, it means that so many Olympic marks will be shattered this year that all of Europe will echo with the concussion.

The young men who performed heroics in Paris four years ago did right well for themselves and for their countries and performed in ways that brought many gasps of astonishment.

But since 1924 the youngsters tuning up for the Amsterdam battleground, have made most of the old marks look like figures traced in on a fat man's picnic.

The high jumper who won the javelin heave four seasons ago was buzzable [illegible] vociferously because he tossed the spear a trifle more than 200 feet. Since then about 20 gents have slung it much farther. And then one of those herring chewing Finns stepped to the line and made the Olympic mark look like a prep school effort by whizzing it 221 feet.

The champion pole vaulter of 1924 cleared 12 feet 11 1-2 inches, after which the assembled onlookers said:

"That mark perhaps is imperishable."

Many Pass Mark

A man would have to possess about six sets of hands to count the number of times that record has been eclipsed and then, just to show how times and athletics do change, Sabin Carr, of dear old Yale, vaulted 14 feet—with apologies—and Harold Barnes quickly topped that mark.

The running broad jump record of 1924 was 24 feet 5 1-8 inches. Sounds herculean, doesn't it? After which you recede how it sounds when you are informed that DeHart Hubbard, of the U. S. A. has jumped 25 feet 11 inches so often since then that six bookkeepers were required to compute the exact number.

The discus throw of 1924—a matter of 151 feet 5 1-4 inches—has been exceeded about ten times and Bud Houser of this country, got a little strenuous one day, decided to demonstrate just how a discus should be discussed, after which the tape measure kids found that he had scored over 156 feet.

Osborne Is High

The running high jump mark of 1924 was six feet 5 7-8 inches. When you keep in mind the fact that adding so much as an eighth of an inch to that distance is regarded as quite an accomplishment, what's your reaction when you learn that a score of men have jumped beyond that mark since then and that Harold Osborne, of these United States, recently flitted through the ozone for a matter of 6 feet 8 1-2 inches?

And the shot put mark of the 1924 Olympics has been passed repeatedly. But a few days ago, at the Fresno Relays, in California John Kuck, of Kansas, tossed the sixteen pound iron ball the remarkable distance of 51 feet 1-2 inch. A new world's record if the mark is accepted by the A. A. U. Kuck's toss, if accepted will displace one of the oldest and greatest in the book, that of 51 feet, established almost 20 years ago by Ralph Rose.

In addition to the weight mark, nearly four feet has been added to the hammer throwing record. And so far as the leg excursions are concerned—phew!

Speed Marks To Fall

The boys on both sides of the Atlantic have been galloping so fast, as compared with 1924, that they have to run sideways to keep from flying and they being mistaken for Charley Lindbergh.

They've clipped huge fractions off the 100 meters distance; sheared about one second off the 200 meters, beat the quaint Holland landscape.

SINCLAIR'S RUNNER FAVORED AS WINNER OF RICHEST STAKE

Horse, Barred One Month Ago Outstanding Entry in Preakness

Baltimore, May 11—A horse [illegible] one month ago could not have [illegible] Maryland, stands today to win [illegible] richest racing purse [illegible] $50,000 Preakness. The horse is Nash and he is the property of Harry Sinclair, the oil man, all of whose horses were barred in Maryland prior to the late Teapot Dome [illegible].

Nassau is favored to beat a [illegible] field of nineteen three-year-olds and one filly which have been [illegible] against him.

Forty thousand fans will be [illegible] historic Pimlico Track this afternoon. Gov. Albert R. Ritchie, of Maryland, and Mayor James J. Walker, of New York City, will jointly present the Woodlawn vase to the winning owner.

Bright spring sunshine and a gentle spring breeze on the old course the past few days have turned the track fast and indications were that the Preakness would be run under ideal conditions.

[illegible] meters be more than a [illegible] knocked the 1500 meters mark [illegible] into the semblance of a sprinter's [illegible] effort, and they've made the 120 hurdle records look like work[illegible] heavyweight wrestlers.

They'll have about 21 events on the track and field meet in Amsterdam this summer. And if at least 12—perhaps 15—of the old marks aren't [illegible] it'll be only because all the pole[illegible] lose at least two pedals and a [illegible] before the starting gun booms out [illegible] quaint Holland landscape.

Mackmen Develop Into Real Contenders For Yank Title

THLETICS HAVE BUT ONE DEFEAT MARKED DOWN IN 12 BATTLES

Mack Seems To Have Found Right Combination for Winning Team

New York, May 11—There seems to ... for it but to open the attac... and sprinkle its we... the physical subdivision ... Connie Mack. He is en... something special right out ... of the bottle for what he ... seems to have done, for ... the Philadelphia Athletics ...

... a sardonic soul called ... But that was some years ... were endeavoring to re... their 1915 debacle and ... class AEG ball during ... Today, they are about as ... the Wall Street explosion ... runs in their last five ... average of eight! Sixty-... an average of more than ... apathy, provided you ... Yeats was maybe a bit too ... England's standing army. ... are the only club in ... league that has lost but ... since April 18. They have ... meantime for a percentage ... .917 and, if anyone doesn't ... the American League ... be closer than a coat of ... Yankees or no Yankees.

Has Well Balanced Team

The immediate answer is that, for ... since 1914, Connie Mack ... marshaled all the forces ... the creation of a winning ... batting, pitching, season-... defense behind the pitcher ... will to win.

The outfit had hitting in 1926 and ... but the pitchers didn't have much ... the right idea. But today ... and Walberg are standing up like ... and lately Rommel and ... have begun to show signs of ... life. Of course, everybody is ... with a club that plays at the ... of .917 over a period of three ... but the boys have been very ... about the number of runs ... allow, anyhow.

Opponents Average Low

Over the last five-game stretch, the ... which happened to be the ... Tigers and the St. Louis ... averaged less than three runs ... game, which, like the four-cent ... isn't quite enough. The ... had gone well in Washington; ... Tigers were perking up in the west ... Boston. Maybe you think it ... possible to pork down. But I ... it is, because that is what the ... and Tigers did in Philadelphia ... the last seven days.

Some of our best second guessers ... listening now to point out that ... kicked one all over the premises ... he let Sam Gray get away from ... pitching staff. He certainly could ... Gray's six out of seven. But the ... is that he is finding some use for ... .403 batting average of the man ... figured in Gray trade, Eing Miller. ... worthy, always a natty ... hitter, has been nothing short ... a windfall, what with Simmons out ... the game and those base hits ... off the concrete. He has ... been the punch of a great attack that today musters an average of .312.

There is nothing particularly the matter with Sam Hale's .365 nor Cobb's .355 nor yet Hauser's lengthy hitting in the pinches. Even Speaker has lifted his average to .290 during the general excitement.

So, let him who is without sense among you cast the first stone at Mr. C. Mack. Even then, I don't think he really ought to throw it unless he is absolutely certain that the stone is a genuine solitaire.

CALL GAMES

Contests in the Industrial recreation ball league were all called off last night on account of rain. In most cases only four innings had been played.

O'FARRELL TRADED

Cards Get Aged Outfielder in Return for Veteran

ST. LOUIS, May 11—St. Louis baseball fans were divided today in their opinions of the trade that sent catcher Bob O'Farrell of the Cardinals to the New York Giants in exchange for George W. Harper, 38-year-old outfielder.

The deal was announced by Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals. Local fans were surprised because Bob is the only veteran receiver on the Cards roster.

COACHING COURSES WILL BE SHORTENED

School at Ohio State To Get Under Way on June 18

Columbus, May 11—Final plans for the concentrated courses in athletic coaching at Ohio State University this summer have been completed and descriptive literature has just been mailed to some 500 universities, colleges, and high schools. The courses will get under way June 18 and will end June 30. They will cover football, basketball and track and will carry credit in the college of education.

Under Athletic Director L. W. St. John, three courses will concentrate the former six weeks' offerings into a third of the former time. Dr. J. W. Wilce, varsity director of football, will handle the football coaching course with Assistant Coach S. S. Wildman and Director St. John. This course carried two credit hours and calls for 18 lecture and laboratory hours each week. It will be held each afternoon.

The basketball coaching course will be in charge of Harold G. Olson, Ohio State varsity coach. This will be offered in the mornings, carries one credit hour, and necessitates 12 lecture and laboratory periods each week. The track and field sports course will be under Dr. F. R. Castleman, head coach here.

A special course in training methods will be offered also with one hour's credit. Mike Chambers, varsity trainer and recently selected as one of the American Olympic team trainers, will work with Dr. Walter E. Duffee, team physician, in this course. Complete descriptive literature on the courses can be obtained by writing to Athletic Director St. John.

OHIO STATE TEAMS TO INVADE FOREIGN CITIES ON SATURDAY

No "At Home" Sport Engagements for Buckeyes This Week-End

Columbus, May 11—For the first time since the spring athletic campaign got under way, there is no "at home" engagement this week-end for Ohio State teams, but there are four on foreign fields.

After playing three Big Ten baseball games within a period of five days, the Ohio State nine travels to Cornell with the tennis squad to take on the Ithacans. The Buckeyes will be out to avenge the 1927 defeat when they were nosed out by Cornell by the score of 2 to 1. This is the only intersectional game on the baseball slate this season.

For the tennis squad, the Cornell engagement marks the end of non-conference affairs. The Big Ten final grind begins in earnest for the netters when Michigan is met May 16 at Ann Arbor. Chicago comes here three days later and the following week the Conference championships are on tap at Purdue.

Golfers to Indiana

After downing St. John's Ohio Wesleyan, Illinois and Wittenberg, the Buckeye golf outfit journeys to Bloomington for its annual duel with Indiana. Ohio has a well-balanced squad this season and should show well against the Hoosiers.

The third state to be invaded by an Ohio State squad this week is Wisconsin where the varsity track and field contingent is scheduled for participation in the annual outdoor Quadrangular meet. Wisconsin, Northwestern and Chicago are the other three involved.

Fifth "Quad" Meet

This is the fifth annual "Quad" meet. The competition was begun in 1924 at the suggestion of Dr. F. R. Castleman, Ohio State coach. In the indoor affair, Wisconsin took the first three battles and Ohio State has won the last two. Outdoor engagements have seen a similar ending, Wisconsin having taken the first three and Ohio State the 1926 and 1927 meets.

If the Columbus squad should repeat Saturday, it will mark the tenth consecutive meet that the Badgers and the Buckeyes have been one-two, since the Madison squad is rated as the outstanding opponent in the 1928 events. This will be the last competition for Ohio State until the Big Ten championships at Evanston two weeks hence.

Tendency To Hit Upward Fault of Golfer; Present Day Fighters Lack Training; Ball Hits Player on Head for Homer

"THE commonest error among beginners in golf," insists P. A. Vaile, one of the real students and teachers of the game, "is the tendency to hit upward.

"They seem wholly forgetful of the fact that all clubs are so curved that when the ball is hit it will loft of its own accord, the face of the club used insuring the desired loft.

"If all beginners got the idea out of their heads that a ball had to be lofted from the ground and merely hit it straight ahead, their troubles would be reduced to a minimum and their play would be immeasurably improved.

"Just hit squarely at a ball as though you were intent on driving it forward along the ground. Don't try to loft it and there will be a vast change in your game because the curved surface of the club automatically lifts the ball to the required height."

THE FREAKIEST HOMER

PLAYS will come and plays will be forgotten on the baseball field but there's one that will be recalled often and with laughter for many years to come.

It's the one that concerns a home run which caromed off the head of Benny Kauff when he was the bright, flaming star of the Federal League of more than a dozen years ago.

A fly had been hit toward the fence and Kauff chased after it. As he reached the fence it seemed as it the ball would just clear the top. But it didn't. It landed on the edge and dropped back into the field—squarely on the top of the head of Kauff, who was backed against the wall.

The horsehide, as stated, landed squarely on Benny's dome. After which it bounced upward and cleared the fence, giving the batter a home run.

OLD DAYS VERSUS NOW

"THE fighters of the present day have no foundation," declared Jack Skelly, one of the great battlers of a long gone era. "They just jump out of tailor shops, or office wagons or out of machine shops and climb into professional rings."

"As a result the game is filled with youngsters who know nothing about the science, the technique of the game, and whose only method is to go out and slug or maul until one has battered the other into unconsciousness.

"Even while he is doing that—even while he is a success in that particular fight—he has taken so much of a beating himself that he's almost in as bad a condition as the man who lost.

"In the earlier years a young boxer was built up gradually to withstand the bombardment that came in professional fights. He got his start as an amateur, where the pace is not as stiff, nor the battle as furious or relentless.

"Not so much is expected of an amateur as of a pro. The boy, therefore, learned gradually and without the necessity of almost having his brains beaten out. When he rose to greatness as an amateur he got his chance as a professional—but not until then.

"As a result, in those days, when a boy made his professional debut he had plenty of knowledge, plenty of experience and plenty of foundation to help him along on a professional career."

THE BREEDING HOKUM

WHENEVER the racing racket is attacked by reformers, those within the racket immediately shrill to the heavens that the purpose of racing horses is to improve the breed.

And therein lies the laugh of laughs.

For what purpose are they improving the particular breed of horses that gallop around on the merry-go-rounds of the nation?

None! Other than to perpetuate the "sport of kings" and the betting ring. Stop betting on horse races and the sport would die a natural death, and breeding thoroughbreds would cease, except in a few cases where breeding good horses is a hobby with individuals.

If all the race horses in the U. S. A. contracted dandruff right now and were exterminated there'd still be enough good horses left within the ownership of the U. S. Army to supply mounts for calvalrymen.

So for what useful purpose are they perpetuating the breed of race horses?

And if this "perpetuating the breed" was the real truth, why do they geld about 25 per cent of the race horses—thus making it impossible for them to reproduce?

Isn't it almost time that the men who fight for the perpetuation of the horse racing game told the truth—admitted that the only reason why they race horses is so they can furnish a spectacle and enrich themselves either through admission prices or through the "cut" taken from the gambling in the pari-mutuel machines?

EXPECT ONLY STRONG RUNNERS TO SURVIVE LONG TREKS IN OHIO

Jaunt to Fremont and Elyria Calls for 58-Mile Trots

Wauseon, May 11—C. O. "Cross Country" Pyle's bunion derby is thus far not in the habit of pausing to read the scriptures, but many this morning looked over the line "and only the strong shall survive."

Today's jaunt for the caravan of calooses called for a 58 mile trek from Wauseon to Fremont after skirting Toledo enroute. This lap, long in itself, was to be followed with an additional 58 miles tomorrow to Elyria. With the increased daily mileage, men who have been "dark horses" continued their assault upon the time margins of the leaders.

With 112 miles on tap within a two day period, referee Red Grange predicted that the field would be materially reduced before the runners reached Cleveland, Sunday.

"The fellows have a fighting heart now that is hard to down," Grange said. "Speed is the thing that counts now and all of the men know that they will be dropped at the least show of indifference. The midnight zero hour will be strictly enforced and those who fail to check in will receive their hundred dollars transportation deposit and be on their way home within a few hours."

Pyle's caravan is increasing its attractiveness with each passing day. The canvas sidewall within which the runners are introduced become a magnet that teems with cheering hundreds.

SWATS ANOTHER

Home Run Derby Three Cornered Affair This Year

NEW YORK, May 11—The home run derby is a three-cornered affair this year, the standing today being Babe Ruth 7, Joe Hauser, 6, and Del Bissonette 6, Hunter Gehrig, Ruth's closest rival last season, has only three.

Ruth and Hauser delivered yesterday. Ruth's homer was a long wallop and was hit into the left field stands of the Yankee Stadium. It was the first time the king of swat had driven a ball into that territory since 1923.

The Bambino is two games ahead of his 1927 record.

KREMER'S FAILURE PRINCIPAL CAUSE OF PIRATE'S BAD START

Giants Increase Lead as Reds Lose; Yanks Defeat Indians

New York, May 11—The ineffectiveness of Ray Kremer, once the ace of the Pittsburgh mound staff, has been the chief cause of the Pirates' poor start this season. Still suffering from an injury to his foot last year, he has won only one game in five starts.

Yesterday Kremer was beaten by the New York Giants, 5 to 4. Fitzsimmons and Hogan, the New York battery, drove in four runs between them.

The Pirates dropped clear down to fifth place. The Giants increased their hold on first place, as Cincinnati lost to Boston, 7 to 6, in 10 innings.

Scoring three runs in the eighth, St. Louis nosed out the Phillies, 5 to 4, and jumped to third place. The Cards have copped four straight and the Phils haven't yet won a game in the west.

Babe Ruth's seventh homer of the season, with two runners on the sacks, staked the Yankees to a 4 to 2 win over Cleveland. Pipgras and Hudlin did the throwing. Pipgras, with five victories and no defeats, is now leading the pitchers of both leagues.

Bob Fothergill's bat won another game for Detroit. Robust Robert's double in the tenth, his third hit of the game, gave the Tigers a 6 to 5 verdict over Washington.

Walloping three St. Louis pitchers for 19 hits, the Athletics chalked up their fifth straight victory, 11 to 1. Joe Hauser hit his sixth homer.

Chicago had lost seven straight.

Ritzy Rosey

Ritzy Rosey's Spring coat should attract much favorable attention as she promenades. It is trimmed in fluffy fox dyed silver and rose delicately blending into each other. Of course the fox was white originally. Incidentally, your coal next Winter may not be black at all. An enterprising coal company is experimenting with handpicked coal dyed a glorious blue. One of life's mysteries.

WHO'S YOUR GROCER?

Not a personal question, but one which you should give deep study. Are you unthoughtedly trading at foreign controlled concerns, who send your money out of town the same day you spend it, or are you patronizing home industries, whose monies go into the county and city treasuries, pays salaries, builds schools, churches and public institutions, pave streets, contributes to our Community Chest without getting "authorization" from out-of-town millionaires, who sometimes do and sometimes don't. Are you with the great mass of people, who "Buy in Marion" and who are always willing to help boost our city, that will make it a better and more pleasant place to live—If so, remember this cannot be done by having your money sent out of town. Help Marion grow by trading at a Serv-U-Wel Market and keep the money at home.

Joe Yee Leaves; City Now Has No Chinese Laundry

"N[illegible] no worker." Thus Joe Yee tersely summed up [illegible] for moving from Marion and as a result leaving the city without a Chinese laundryman.

Marion has not been a profitable business field for Chinese laundries, as two have left within the last two weeks. Joe Yee, formerly located on W. Center-st, moved to a room on N. Main-st, recently vacated by one of his countrymen, in an effort to improve his business.

Apparently there were no more collars in that end of town to iron than there were in the West Side for Joe soon packed his head adding machine, his irons and left town.

Soft collars and shirts with collars attached are blamed for lack of business.

New York, May 11 — Sharp advances in the motor, railroad, aeroplane, mercantile and specialty stocks, and a broad recovery in the oil and equipment stocks was the market's response to the favorable financial and industrial conditions announced after the close of Thursday's market.

It was Wall Street's view that the directors of the New York Reserve Bank declined to raise the rediscount rate of the bank in order to head off the flow of funds from the outside money centers to the big speculative district. In this they were following a course best suited to the checking of stock speculation, but the six per cent call loan rate was too great a magnet for outside money lenders and funds flowed here in abundance. Against an official call rate of 5½ per cent, money was available for speculative purposes as low as five per cent.

General Motors responded with higher prices to the $2 extra dividend. Radio, Wright, Aero, Curtiss, Montgomery Ward, and, in the rail list, Wabash and the Missouri Pacific, drew the speculative spotlight, signalizing their popularity by new advances of four to 10 points. Wright Aero gained about 17 points to 192, at which price it showed a gain of nearly 127 points on the movement. Radio was within hailing distance of its peak price of 200. Large blocks of U. S. Steel sold at 100.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S GRAIN

Chicago, May 11—A crash in the grain markets yesterday knocked the price of wheat down 5½@6½c and of corn 2⅝@2¾c, shaking bulls in these grains to their heels. Thomas Howell was credited with leading the selling of wheat, but nobody wanted to take the other end of it.

Oats and rye weathered the storm sturdily. The former closed only ¾c lower to 1-2c higher and rye at the end of the session was unchanged to 2¼c up.

The blow fell on the wheat market after it had advanced a couple of cents from a lower opening. It sent prices sprawling, like a piece of a cornice toppling upon the head of a jauntily strutting pedestrian.

This happened early in the day, and never again was wheat able to get up. It was like a man knocked flat who was handed another one every time he lifted himself to his knees. At the end prices were close to the bottom, with May wheat that sold at $1.71½ only a dozen days ago down at the humble figure of $1.52.

The break seemed to be so excessive a clean out that the market today may have a sharp upturn, regardless of what its course may be next week. Such wrenching readjustment of speculative position as was forced by yesterday's decline often put the technical condition in a position as sensitive to buying as it was to selling before the break.

The action of the market seemed to indicate that the government estimate of a Winter wheat crop of 479,080,000 bushels was far larger than longs drugged into superhuman confidence by private crop reports had supposed it would be. When they shook off the effects of this benumbing dope the market was already going down like the water over Niagara.

The panicky rush to get out that followed obliterated all sense of value for the time being. The only object was to sell wheat and stop losses that were mounting with frightful speed as the market declined.

During the forepart of the session corn stood up well against weak sympathy with wheat. But that roll required too much fortitude. Late in the day when wheat failed to recover corn began to slip. When it did it dropped a sheer 2 cents before brakes were put on in the way of short covering.

News from the corn belt is likely to be optimistic. A big acreage with fine prospects will probably be daily items in the market news of the near future. Thus, too bright a picture of an abundant crop next Fall may draw attention from any cash demand for present supplies.

The futures market is what its name implies. It concerns itself with events not yet on the horizon of the present. Therefore, although the finest corn crop that ever was grown cannot add one grain to the supplies that must last from now until November, the mere prospect of such a crop may build up a psychological attitude that stands like a wall against rising prices at the present time.

Corn has been bulled for months, and in that fact lies, perhaps, a market weakness. Shorts who sold corn at very much lower prices have long since covered and sold short again. But bulls who have long had big profits on paper may not yet have tried to take them.

In the cash market wheat was 3 to 4 lower; corn was down 1½ to 2½; oats were unchanged to ½ up; rye was quiet; barley was unchanged.

ORDERS JURY TRIAL FOR DAMAGE SUIT

Mt. Gilead Judge Directs Naming of Jurors from Delaware County

Mt. Gilead, May 11—On motion the plaintiffs in the case of M. W. Kibben and others against Ritchey and others as the commissioners of Morrow County, Judge W. P. Vaughan ordered that 15 jurors be selected from Delaware County to act in this case and be summoned to appear May 14. The plaintiffs, who are abutting property owners on the Mt. Gilead-Galion road filed the suit against the commissioners when their land was alleged to have been damaged in widening the road. Several similar suits have been filed for damage and the decision in this case will probably affect payments in the other case. T. B. Nesbit is the attorney for the plaintiffs and Prosecutor F. L. Myers represents the defendants.

About Permanent Waving-

When getting a permanent wave do not make the mistake that others have by thinking that it is the name of a machine that makes a permanent a success or failure. The kind of permanent you get depends entirely upon the operator, kind of supplies used blocking of hair and timing.

Our machine is equipped with a first class steam gauge, which entirely eliminates all guesswork. It controls the reaction of the hair to electric current. It has been proven that hair will steam anywhere from three to seven minutes and one minute too much or not enough will spoil the permanent, no matter what condition the hair is in. With a steam gauge in use, we can offer every protection in this operation.

We GUARANTEE our permanents and invite you to consult with us free. We will not accept persons for permanents whose hair has been abused.

ADOPT CENSOR BOARD FOR ALL CHURCH PLAYS

London—A board of censors to censor sacred plays for churches, the first body of the kind in England, has been constituted here.

Appointed by the Bishop of Southwark, London, the Board consists of three members, who will examine plays submitted for presentation in the Southwark diocese. Plays will only be allowed to be staged after they have been passed by the Board.

The Bishop feels that nothing of a secular character should be performed in church, and the duties of the Board will be to see that any plays presented are of a purely religious nature and based on the writings of the Bible.

A pile of letters in your box promises something interesting, but a good many can be disappointing.

ROUMANIANS MEET

Ten Thousand Expected at Canton for Convention

Canton, May 11—The first joint session of the League of Roumanian Societies and the Union of Roumanian Societies, two national organizations, was in full swing here today with several thousand visitors from all parts of the country in attendance. Nearly 10,000 Roumanians are expected to visit the convention during the eight-day session.

Adoption of a constitution with the merging of the two societies, selection of a name for the proposed new organization, election of officers and selection of next year's meeting place is the most important work to be taken up, it was said.

NEW CLEVELAND BOWL WILL CALL FOR $5,000

Cleveland—A stadium on the lake front to seat 85,000 spectators including bleachers will be constructed in the near future if contemplated plans are carried out either by city authorities or officials of the Cleveland American League Baseball Club.

If the city does not "get busy real soon," Alva Bradley, and his associates, who own the Indians, promised the stadium on the lake front near enough to the principal business section of Cleveland to enable the business man to work until 2:30 p. m. and be in his seat when a baseball game starts at 3.

"I have said before and repeat," declared City Manager William R. Hopkins, "we should increase as rapidly as possible our national facilities for providing amusement and entertainment. The Cleveland Baseball Club Co., will lease the stadium and be our most important tenant."

DENVER EASTERN STARS WILL ENTERTAIN 8,000

Denver—The twenty Denver Chapters of the order of the Eastern Star will be hosts to more than 8,000 delegates to the 19th National Triennial Assembly to be held here July 22 to 28. Every state of the United States and many foreign countries, including England, China, Scotland and Germany, will be represented.

There are more than 2,000,000 members of the Eastern Star, 23,000 of whom reside in Colorado.

Among the features of the program being arranged for the conclave are speeches by Governor William H. Adams of Colorado and Mayor Benjamin F. Stapleton of Denver, a trip up Pikes Peak as guests of the three Colorado Springs Chapters and an old fashioned chuck wagon dinner in Denver's mountain parks.

Temperance workers over in England are seeking to drive barmaids out of business, holding that serving drinks across public house bars is degrading to women. There's this to be said for the English barmaid; she's just about the only decent connection the whisky business has.

Apropos of the many beauties being pictured in the papers these days, our memory goes back to the time when beauty in womanhood was reckoned from the shoulders up rather than from the hips down.

This stuff about the presidential candidates of the two old parties being as good as selected is all rot. Why, the straw votes are as yet hardly more than started.

Still, let us be fair to Senator Walsh. He isn't the first patriot who only thought he was a candidate for presidential honors.

The attorneys of Hickman, the cowardly little rat who murdered Marion Parker out in Los Angeles, are endeavoring to save his life by attacking the California law permitting the plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity," the law to which they elected to have their client plead. When such practices as this are no longer permitted in our courts, there will be a decided speeding-up of justice with a corresponding decrease in crime.

Known Many Centuries Ago.

That Roman metal workers in England, as far back as the third century of the present era, knew how to weld iron and join or solder pieces of iron together with copper was demonstrated beyond all doubt to those in attendance at the recent meeting of the Institute of Metals in London. Professors J. Newton Friend and W. E. Thorneycroft, of the Technical college, Birmingham, not only told of the recent discovery in Britain of such handiwork, but also exhibited a specimen of it.

There is hardly any part of southern England where evidence of the Roman occupation can not be found. Roman ruins are to be seen almost anywhere, and some of them are yet in excellent condition. English town after English town has its collection of Roman implements of peace as well as of war, pottery, jewelry and coins. Perhaps as interesting excavations as any thus far made are those of the old Roman city of Uriconium, located on the River Severn, which was destroyed about 380 A. D. It was here the specimens of welding and copper soldering of which the two Birmingham professors spoke were unearthed, and thus it is that the fact that Roman artisans in England knew the arts of welding and soldering iron within a century or two of the time of Christ is established.

When we see workmen soldering together steel rails in electric tracks, we just naturally assume that we are looking upon something comparatively new, but it seems that the same thing was done close to 2,000 years ago. How the Romans secured the necessary heat to accomplish the operation is a mystery, but, so far as that goes, it's no more of a mystery than how the metal workers of old tempered copper. All we know is that they did temper copper, which we of today are unable to do.

Archaeological discoveries are generally interesting, very frequently valuable and at times doubly so. They tell us of the people of the past with a certainty which we could not attain in any other way. And at times, as in the cases mentioned herein, they give us something of a line upon ourselves. They teach us not to place fictitious values on our own importance. We have accomplished amazingly during the past century or two. We of today have gone forward in accomplishments beyond the progress recorded in all history. But let us not become unduly enthusiastic in admiration of ourselves or undervalue the accomplishments of those who passed before us. Almost daily something develops to teach us that the wisdom of our time is not wholly ours; that much that we have is merely the rediscovery of that which had been forgotten and that much that was once known is still unknown to us.

Uncertainty Is Demoralizing.

Disregarding the opposition of President Coolidge, the lower house of congress has authorized the expenditure by the United States Shipping board of $12,000,000 for the reconditioning of the Mount Vernon and the Monticello, the plan being to turn them over, when they are reconditioned, to the United States Lines for operation as cabin ships between New York and London.

At the time the latter liner was taken over from Germany—both of them are former German boats she was named the Argamemnon Possibly, as the other was named after the home of Washington, it was recently deemed fitting to call the Argamemnon the Monticello after the home of Thomas Jefferson, the patron saint of Democracy. We can see the force of this. It's alike patriotic and good strategy on the part of those behind the plan to recondition the two.

If the Mount Vernon and Monticello are operated on the plan announced, the venture may prove a very profitable one. The British have a line of vessels in operation between the ports named which have become quite popular. It is something of an advantage to a traveler who wishes to go to London, to dock within a short taxi ride of a London hotel instead of landing at Southampton, or being taken off in a lighter at Plymouth, twice as far away, and traveling the remainder of the journey by rail, as all travelers to England on United States Lines vessels must now do. To go from New to London by water may take a trifle longer than the combination water-rail route, but not much, and the trip through the English channel and up the Thames is well worth any extra time it may take.

But whether the plan to recondition two vessels of the ages of the Mount Vernon and the Monticello at a cost of $12,000,000 is advisable is an entirely different matter. If marine experts are to be trusted, the life of an ocean liner is about twenty years. If such is the case, the best to be expected from the two vessels in question would be six or seven years. By expending something like $8,000,000 more two vessels in all ways up to date might be had with three times the life ahead of them which experts give these two old German liners. It is not impossible that Mr. Coolidge is in the right in expressing opposition to the plan to thus expend $12,000,000, even though such expenditure would make possible the operation of the two vessels two or three years before new vessels could be put into service.

Whether the president or the house be right in this matter may thus be an open question, but there is one matter concerning which there can be no question. This country should decide, at once, whether it is going to stay in the Atlantic passenger business or get out of it. The same day the wires carried the Washington story of the action of the house, they carried also announcement of the possible sale of the United States Lines in the near future. Since the government began to operate its Atlantic passenger service there has been constant talk of the sale of the United States Lines to private interests, and this uncertainty regarding their future operation, so those in position to speak advisedly say, has been the greatest handicap from which they have been compelled to suffer. This uncertainty has not only had its effect on patronage, but also upon those employed in the operation of the various vessels of the fleet, both the forces at sea and the forces on land. Neither can tell today what tomorrow may have in store for them. Those on the vessels at sea do not know how soon they may have nothing to man and those on shore do not know what service they may have tomorrow to sell.

Good business tenets demand that those operating the United States Lines should have some guarantee of the permanency of their jobs. Nothing can be much more demoralizing than such uncertainty as that under which they have labored in the past and are still laboring.

"The abusive accusations of the senator," said one senator Tuesday, to a fellow-member, "are wholly fictions of his own disordered, and I am beginning to believe, his almost deranged intellect." Effects of Feeding on Babies.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Unless the mother watches the baby carefully the bowels are likely to become costive. This tendency is a common symptom in young infants.

There are many causes, of course, but almost every one of them relates to the feeding. Faults in eating are responsible. Giving too much sugar is one thing.

In making the formula for bottle feeding a certain quantity of sugar is added to the mixture. This must be carefully controlled. The amount must be regulated according to the age of the infant.

It is a very bad practice to give too much sugar. And under no circumstances should sweetened water be given in place of plain bottled water.

The other day a charming woman whom I know very well, wrote to ask me if it is a good practice to give a baby sweetened water every day. There is but one answer to this—No!

Sugar and candy are not for babies and young children. Lime starvation is the penalty a child pays for being fed candy. It destroys the appetite for milk and, in consequence, there is not enough lime to supply the increasing need of that important mineral. Growth will be stunted and the teeth robbed of the necessary lime. By no means feed the young child candy.

It is a great mistake to create an appetite for sweets by giving the infant sweetened water. It develops an unnatural and improper appetite.

Too much sugar is such a common cause for constipation in infants that it should be thought of at once if the symptom is met. This is true, too, of giving too much fat. It may be necessary to take away all cream or top milk. For a while it will be wise to give plain milk, with the usual proportions of the other ingredients of the mixture.

Some baby foods are bought and mixed without milk. If constipation develops after their use, it will probably be necessary to turn to milk and water mixtures.

Orange juice added to the baby's diet may overcome the constipation. This is true, too, of strained cooked tomato juice.

If constipation is associated with chronic vomiting, it may be set down as due to the same cause. You need expert advice given by your doctor after a careful examination of the baby. Take no chances and, above all else, do no experimenting of your own. Babies must not be trifled with even by a loving parent.

Your doctor will mention the value of gelatin as an addition to the feedings if there is a tendency to constipation. Sometimes there is a tendency for the milk to form large and indigestive curds in the stomach. The addition of gelatin prevents this unfortunate state of affairs. A level teaspoonful of the right sort of gelatin to a feeding will help a lot.

With the Editors.

NOT PRECISELY NEW.

The voice is the voice of the Chicago chief of police but the words are the words of William Hale Thompson, mayor. It is announced that the remarkable organized criminals who have made Chicago their plaything and the wonder of the world must cease to operate. Perhaps some of the criminals are chuckling a little.

But it is more likely that the associated gunmen, pineapple tossers, booze runners, hi-jackers, racketeers, gamblers, burglars and incidental murderers, bone-breakers and educational committees will regard the new order as something rather serious. It is generally believed that an alliance of crime and politics is responsible for Chicago's shame. With one of the partners turning against the other, the outlook is at least questionable.

It is reported that certain canny gamblers, aware that their craft can only with difficulty cover its tracks, have put their paraphernalia into temporary storage. Perhaps this is indicative of the general attitude. A brief tempest of advertised reform and then a return to the safe seas of piracy.

The police proclamation comes with all the gravity of a newly-discovered fact. The fact is that a city terrorized by criminals is not enforcing its laws. Really there is nothing new about it. Every one in and out of Chicago has known it for a long time.

The special significance is that the statement is made so shortly after the voices of Chicago repudiated the existing administration. The underworld, solid and militant, could not muster enough votes. To politicians the underworld is valuable solely for its votes. When the votes fail some one wakes up and realizes that the friendship of the underworld is in the long run more of a liability than an asset.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AN UNFORTUNATE HANDSHAKE.

John Phoong's loneliness and desire to make friends spelled failure for his ingenious plan to get into the United States from Germany C. O. D. in a packing case. John has been trying to come to America for quite a while. When he first applied for a passport and a visa on the immigrant quota he was refused and he grew so discouraged that he spent all his money. When the passport was finally given him he talked the matter over with a friend and decided that traveling by freight was cheaper than on the passenger list. So the friend nailed John into a big crate and in it John arrived safely in New York. A checker on the dock, of a particularly inquisitive nature, stuck his hand through an opening in the box. Being the first apparently friendly act that had been vouchsafed him since he left Germany, John eagerly seized it and gave it a hearty squeeze. The checker, startled beyond measure, ran down the dock screaming that he had been bitten by a wild animal.

Inasmuch as John had, except for the passage, complied with the immigration laws, it would seem as if some way might be found to overlook his method of entry. The officials of the steamship line are more amused than angry over the ingenuous manner in which John sought to evade buying a ticket and are reported as willing to help him obtain work. It will be too bad if the arduous trip in a packing box from Germany to the United States has been taken by this smart lad in vain.—Washington Star.

The Individual.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

One hears a great deal nowadays about the coming reduction of all individuals into mere units in a future grand "social organism" which is to be a universal efficiency machine. Some persons profess to look upon this idea with warm approval, though they show no haste to surrender their own particular freedom as individuals. It has become a kind of shibboleth among the worshippers of the great god "Efficiency."

General John J. Carty, of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, in a published address, after recalling certain prognostications of Professor Edwin Grant Conklin concerning the direction of human evolution, and the ideas of Mr. W. Trotter about the part which increasingly free intercommunication between individuals of the species is to play in such evolution, says:

"It is the function of the engineer to provide for the extension of the spoken word by means of electrical systems of intercommunication which will serve to connect the nervous system to each unit of society with all of the others, thus providing an indispensable element in the structure of that inconceivably great and powerful organism which it is believed will be the ultimate outcome of the marvelous evolution which society is to undergo."

And further he says: "While it would be folly to ignore the claims of religion and philosophy, it would be a grave error to conclude that, in order to avoid disaster, we must restrict progress in the application of science to material things. On the contrary, we must accelerate progress in all the sciences, for the knowledge thus gained will be required in preparing the individual man to function as a sane and peaceful unit in the ultimate social organism."

Now, is it so certain, or really so desirable, that the individual is to be submerged in the general, and turned into a more contented little cog, occupied endlessly in falling mechanically into its place in the rack to keep the great machine efficiently active? Efficient action for what, and for whose satisfaction?

We have been taught that human souls are individually responsible to a higher creative power; that they are endowed with freedom of will and of action, in order that they may work out their "salvation"—or say evolution—for themselves; the whole discernible history of humanity has been a process of growth and multiplication of the powers of the individual. The higher he has risen and the more freedom he has won, the greater has become his usefulness, both for himself and for his race.

The advance of mankind has been due to individualism, and to the inequality among individuals. Superior personalities have lifted the race. Destroy the individual and you destroy ambition, and all incentive to progress. Genius is essentially individual; the advocates of the grand-organism-and-human-cog idea tacitly admit that, for they can not possibly picture themselves as serving for cogs. In the back of their minds they are not cogs, but directors, managers, or geniuses behind the machine.

I do not believe that science will have so sad a fate as to serve only to reconcile men to the loss of their individuality, and, worse than that, to help chain them to the galleys of this hard-eyed god. What kind of a Moloch would that be to fright the very heavens, grown fat by devouring human personality? No, as the world becomes more united each human soul will be richer, greater, and more complete.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

In compliance with the request of City Auditor Harry S. Elliott who had issued a warning against excessive expenditures Mayor Louis Scherff called a meeting of all city officials to provide some plan of financial retrenchment.

"Just a moment," said McMaster, "I object to a campaign speech being made here. It's immaterial to this investigation how much sentiment there is for Mr. Hoover or how easily he will be nominated. The question was what were the contributions received and expenditures made by your organization."

The committee finally decided to let Good conclude his statement.

The list of contributions to the Hoover headquarters fund was headed by Edsel Ford with $5,000. Others included Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, $3,500; Paul Gunther of Denver, $5,000; Senator Walter E. AWAIT PENNSYLVANIA ACTION ON CAUCUS

Republicans Will Hold Caucus and Conference in Philadelphia Saturday

has candidacy, and perhaps assured his nomination.

Pause at Defeat

The Hoover defeat, however, has made the Pennsylvania leaders pause. While the showing made by the Secretary of commerce in both Ohio and Indiana was a good one so far as the cities were concerned, it has been noted significantly that in both states Hoover lost the rural communities by substantial majorities. This is a weakness that has impressed the managing politicians of the party, for they realize that against Al Smith's undoubted strength in the populous and industrial east they must have a candidate capable of carrying the great grain belt that stretches from Ohio to the Rockies.

The Hoover opposition is making much of this point. They point out, for instance, that not only has Hoover failed to carry a rural district in either of the two states wherein he has been tested, but also that in the matter of delegates Hoover has less than a score between the Ohio-Indiana line and Colorado. This, they contend, is a clear-cut demonstration of weakness in the very territory that the Republicans must count upon certainly if a Republican administration is to succeed itself in Washington next year.

May Just Talk

The impression prevailed here today that in this situation, the meeting of the Pennsylvania organization leaders tomorrow will be a pleasant social gathering, without commitments for or against any candidate. The capital rail-birds believe that the leaders will prefer to wait a while longer before tying up with any candidate, and probably will go to Kansas City one month from tomorrow still fancy free. The 79 delegates, of course can be held intact by voting for A. W. Mellon in the early ballots.

So far as Washington knows, Mellon has never given the slightest indication of his own feeling toward the Hoover candidacy.

Mellon was for the renomination of President Coolidge, and when that appeared a futile hope he promptly indorsed Charles E. Hughes only to have Hughes eliminate himself as his first choice had done. After that Mellon relapsed into silence which he has since maintained unbroken.

Mellon Himself Silent

Surface indications have pointed to ultimate Mellon support for the Hoover candidacy. Under Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills has been one of the Hoover board of strategy, and Governor Fisher of Pennsylvania, a party of the Mellon organization, has also been prominent in the Hoover movement.

But Mr. Mellon himself has been silent—and it is generally admitted that this will be the hand that unlocks the Pennsylvania keystone for some candidate.

State Chairman Says Pennsylvania Not To Name "Favorite Son"

Philadelphia, May 11—The Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican national convention will not choose a "favorite son" at their caucus tomorrow, but will go to Kansas City uninstructed, W. L. Mellon, chairman of the state committee indicated here today.

It was reported that the Pennsylvania delegates would be instructed to vote for Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the Treasury, on the first few ballots, then switch to Herbert Hoover, but the state chairman discredited these reports.

Retrial of E. F. Sharpless Sunday Motion Picture Case Is Assigned For May 28

Date Fixed Today by Judge Scofield; Five Men Indicted by Last Grand Jury Are Arraigned; One Gets Reformatory Sentence

May 28 has been set as the date for the retrial of the Edward F. Sharpless Sunday motion picture case in Common Pleas Court. The date was set this morning by Judge George B. Scofield at the request of Guest F. Mouser, who with J. Malcolm Strelitz, is attorney for Sharpless.

While it had been originally planned to schedule the Sharpless trial as the first in the trial session of the May term of court, which will open Tuesday, the time was extended, due to the fact that Attorney Mouser has been called from the city for two weeks.

Five persons, indicted last Tuesday by the grand jury, were arraigned before Judge Scofield in Common Pleas Court this morning. Four pleaded not guilty and dates for their trials were set by the court.

Gets Reformatory Term

Leonard Brooks, who was charged with burglarizing the Frank McDaniels grocery store on Silver st, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to from one to 15 years in the Mansfield Reformatory.

The first of the quartet pleading not guilty to be tried in court will be Floyd Davis. Davis was released on $500 bond when arraigned this morning. His attorney is Louis F. Myers.

Kenneth Robinson was appointed as counsel for Paul Shattles, who will be tried May 16. The trial of Harry Kendler will be held May 29. Kendler will be defended in court by Fred W. Warner.

Curtis Shappard, who was indicted on two counts by the grand jury, is scheduled to appear before the court on May 31. He will be defended by the law firms of Monser, Young & Monser and Cathcart & Warner.

Shappard is charged with breaking into the Abel & Rotea billiard room and attempting to force a safe.

What's Best for a Bad Stomach?

Nine-tenths of all stomach trouble—indigestion, sourness, gas pain, heartburn, etc., are caused by an excess of acid in the stomach.

Artificial digestants, such as pepsin, are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids, and instead neutralize the acid that has upset your stomach, with a spoonful or two tablets of pure Bisurated Magnesia, taken with a little water. This instantly sweetens the stomach and stops the pain and discomfort and your food digests as nature intended. Five quick positive relief from Acid Stomach.

Grade Children Present Entertainment at P. T. A. Meet

The Pleasant Township Parent Teachers Association completed its year of regular programs with a very successful meeting Thursday evening. The main part of the program was an operetta, "Magic Gingerbread," produced by pupils selected from grades three, four and five. The pupils taking part were: The Ginger Bread Man, the father, Robert Vance; mother, Sue Mae Zieg; Bridget Ann, Dorothy Hoopman and the twins, Pauline Leffler and Melvin Senter; the cook, Rosie Rice; his helpers, Ivabelle Walker, Donna Turner, Naomi Ansley, Gloria Weiss, Irene Scurrlock, Mary Alice Nickelson; chorus, Vernon Clere, June Green, Donald Snowdeker, Helen Reiff, Irene Hood; witch, Onis Spencer. The following teachers trained and coached the children in their parts, Mrs. O'a Lamon, music, Miss Mabel Pritchard, trumpeting, and Mrs. Hazel Walker, scenery.

Mrs. A. H. Koons was a very important factor in the success of the program. She and her daughter Jean were secured to furnish the extra music in place of the Ludon stringed quartet who were unable to fill the appointment. Mrs. Koons played several fine selections on the accordeon, and her daughter played the saxophone.

During the business session C. A. Jeel was elected president, R. A. Moser vice president, and Mrs. I. N. Hoopman, secretary-treasurer. After the program, refreshments were served in the dining room of the school. There were over 200 in attendance.

Celebrated Medicine Restored Her Health in Every Way, States This Lady

MRS. E. EVANS

"I've certainly found splendid relief in Konjola and I want to tell the public about this splendid preparation," said Mrs. E. Evans, 1660 Hampton Road, Akron, Ohio.

"I had been bothered a long time with stomach trouble. After meals I always blouted up with gas and the sickening pains badly made my stomach very sore. My liver was sluggish and caused me to have awful headaches and dizzy spells, all during the day. I could have stood these miseries better if I had not been bothered with kidney trouble, too. I had to rise several times during the night and I also had pains across the small of my back.

"I was in a terrible state of health when I got my first bottle of Konjola. It went right to the source of all my health troubles, and now all the miseries are ended. I can eat anything that I want and never suffer the least bit with bloating afterward. This medicine regulated my bowels and liver and relieved the headaches and dizzy spells. Then my kidneys began to get stronger and now I don't have to get up at all during the night and the pains in my back are gone. My health is better than it has been in several years and I owe it all to Konjola."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experiences with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stamp & Sons Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.
